Koordinators kommentarer

The course has consisted of 10 PhD-student led seminars on different methodological topics within LCA. This format was appreciated by the students and I think it has worked out well. The PhD students selected a broad range of topics of both general and specialised interest and identified up-to-date high quality papers to be discussed in the seminars. Seminars were well prepared and discussions were well documented in the notes taken. Next time I will make sure that expectations are clearly articulated from the start, as I realised a bit late that the instructions for notes had not been shared initially. We could also add a little more time for joint reflection and synthesis. Some students suggest a final wrap-up session at the end, to look back at the whole course content. Another option is to go back to the format of the course in 2022, where we had an optional extra 30 min in each seminar, for those wanting a deeper discussion of the topic. That would make the ending of each seminar less abrupt than during this year's course.
